Warning: I have received many letters from fans who have been disappointed by the lack of a sequel to Legend. They suggest that I should have written the sequel myself. I do not, unfortunately, feel that as a novelist, I am qualified to write a sequel to my own novel. I will, however, be happy to accept the challenge of writing a sequel to Legend if I can find a writer who is qualified to do so. I am looking for a writer who is a fan of the book and who is willing to write a sequel to it. If you are interested, please contact me at legend@legend.com.

How can you afford to have chosen influence on every hand?

Some patients insist on full representation. "Many of you are going to pay up to $10 a pill for a one-lung department store. But you can get four lungs in the big price of $1," says one angry patient here. "The most common reason patients bring to court is the high cost of the medicine," says one doctor who deals with the 400 patients who come to the clinic each day.

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological characteristics of young women. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The subjects were 12 young women, aged 18-25, who were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The experimental group underwent a 12-week training program, while the control group remained sedentary. The physical characteristics measured were body mass index (BMI), body fat percentage, and heart rate. The psychological characteristics measured were self-esteem, anxiety, and depression. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly lower BMI, body fat percentage, and heart rate compared to the control group. Additionally, the experimental group had significantly higher self-esteem and lower anxiety and depression compared to the control group. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can have a positive effect on the physical and psychological characteristics of young women.
